From the desk of Mrs. Potter

Thank you for taking your time last week to come meet with me about your child's progress. It was nice to talk individually about how your child's first grade experience is going so far.

How are the moon journals going? Remember if you miss a day, especially during our week off, you can look online to fill in;) The class was VERY excited to come to school this morning and point out the moon in the daytime sky!

We have been doing a lot of activities leading to our Thanksgiving holiday, and it has been our focus in religion as well. Lots of reading and journaling have helped us reflect on the meaning of Thanksgiving. I would like to share that I am thankful for my first graders. I also appreciate the help, support, and kindness from the first grade families.

With our upcoming week off, there will be no homework going home this Friday, and there will be no Book-in-a-Bag. Please be sure that your child turns those things in on time by this Friday, but we will resume after break. I firmly believe that is family time; enjoy each other and have a very blessed Thanksgiving holiday!
